Chaneese Martin

Chaneese Martin is originally from New Jersey but has lived in Maryland since her early adolescence. She graduated from Eleanor Roosevelt High School in Greenbelt, MD. As a high school student Chaneese began volunteering at Springhill Lake Recreation Center, and upon graduation became a permanent mentor for the L.I.V.E.S. (Ladies Instilling Values Excellence, & Success) Program.

She received her Associates Degree in Psychology from Prince George's Community College, her Bachelor's Degree in Psychology from Bowie State University, and her Master's in Business Administration from University of Maryland Global Campus (graduating with honors).

Chaneese has worked for the Defense Information Systems Agency (DISA) for over 10 years, currently working as a Lead Management Analyst in Fort Meade, MD. She has held many positions of prominence within DISA, but especially enjoys working with various program offices and personnel to develop strategic communications and planning.

When she's not busy running her freelance makeup business, she enjoys being with family/friends, singing and mentoring young women.
